BARON'S DAUGHTER, HITLER FRIEND, DIES

By The Associated Press

OBAN, SCOTLAND, May 31—Unity Freeman-Mitford, 33, center of a storm of speculation at the beginning of the war because of her friendship with Adolf Hitler, died Saturday night.

Miss Freeman-Mitford, the daughter of Baron Redesdale, became ill a few days ago at the home of her parents on the island of Inchkenneth. A friend of the family said her death was believed to have been caused by meningitis.

In Germany, near Hitler's Berchtesgaden retreat at the beginning of the war, she was seriously wounded by a pistol shot in the head under circumstances never publicly explained.

She was unconscious three weeks in a Munich hospital. Top German physicians attended her, and on Christmas eve, 1939, Hitler arranged to send her home. On his orders an ambulance train took her to a French channel port and the British government allowed her to join her family.

In England, she recovered speedily from her wound.

Her English friends said it was an accident. In Germany it was known that she had seen Hitler on several occasions in those tense

World War Chaplain Voices Peace Hope in Memorial Day Talk

The tribute of a living memorial was shared by civilian and veteran alike in exercises held yesterday afternoon at the Marion cemetery. Hundreds of persons lined the streets down which military, patriotic, fraternal and civic organizations together with Boy and Girl Scouts and pupils of the public and parochial schools marched to the cemetery where Rev. John E. Duffy of New London, O., chaplain in World War II and a retired Army colonel, gave the Memorial day address.

A large audience heard the speaker decry the selfishness and greed of a world in which, despite the fact that our enemies have surrendered unconditionally, "there is no peace," and were admonished that "our only hope of peace is a return to the principles of America and a realization that God is supreme and not man."

Occupying places of honor on the platform were officers of the day, Gold Star Mothers, widows of veterans, disabled veterans of all wars and Spanish American War Veterans.

Program Details

Walter H. Melby was president of the day and the program opened with an overture by the Harding High school band. The invocation was spoken by Dr. Edwin A. Brown, pastor of Wesley Methodist church. Owen C. Meddles read General Logan's Order of May 8, 1868 creating Decoration day and Lincoln's Gettysburgh address was by Judge Edward J. Ruzzo. William L. Dowler directed the singing of "America," and Mr. Melby led in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Rev. Duffy, pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic church at New London, served as an Army chaplain for 15 years. He was stationed in the Philippines, was on the Bataan march and for many months was confined to a Jap prison.

Father Duffy's Address

Rev. Father Duffy said in his address that subversive elements in the nation have conspired to destroy the liberty that has been won by blood and sacrifice, and he deplored hatred and confusion which is being brought into the nation. He declared too great a price has been paid for liberty to permit agitation to come into our midst, to cause a disturbance among the people and to destroy the unity of the people. Rev. Duffy added that too many of our people have surrendered to false propaganda, have taken on a spirit of defeatism instead of remembering the traditions on which America was founded, and have been led astray by false doctrines.

Voicing a hope for peace, Rev. Duffy urged that all Americans stand up and be counted and demand a return to constitutional government. He declared that we must fight both in forum and in market place to preserve the liberty which we now have. Rev. Duffy deplored the reckless depletion of the national resources by those in charge of the economy of our country.

Rev. Duffy expressed his opinion that any nation which, three years after a war, does not see fit to use God-given instincts to rehabilitate themselves, really has no place in the world and has no right to continue to live. Rev. Duffy expressed this opinion when speaking in regard to the European recovery program.

He paid a tribute to both the living and dead who fight and have fought for the preservation of liberty.

Closing Ceremony

A firing squad from Co. C, 166th Infantry, in charge of Captain Robert Melby, fired a salute, taps were sounded by Lt. Howard Fogle, with the echo by George Barnhart, and the assembly was dismissed by Rev. D. H. Hochstetler, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church.

Following the exercises the parade, with the exception of the school children, reformed and marched north on State street to the southwest corner of the postoffice where it was reviewed by officers and the general staff.

The parade, headed by the highway patrol, Mayor Harry L. Dowler, Safety Director E. O. Uncapher, city police and firemen, the colors, grand marshal and staff, marched east on Center street, down Main street to the cemetery. Music was furnished by the Caledonia High school band, Eagles band, Harding High school band and the Pleasant Township school band.

Tributes at Churches

Churches paid tribute to those who gave their lives for their country in sermons and song throughout the day. Business in general is suspended today in recognition of the patriotic holiday. Both the public and parochial schools are in session in preparation for the closing of the school term this week.

Memorial Day Services Held By Americans Throughout World

By The Associated Press

Sacrifices of America's war dead were commemorated yesterday in Memorial day exercises around the world.

President Truman spoke at the main tribute, a ceremony in Arlington National cemetery across the Potomac river from Washington. He told the crowd in the Arlington amphitheater, and the nation by radio, that peace "is our ambition for the whole world."

"I hope that these celebrations all over the world in memory of those who gave their lives for liberty will emphasize the fact that the government of the United States works only for peace in the world, and in order to attain that peace we must have the ability to enforce it," Mr. Truman said. "May God give us that strength and that ability."

The President placed a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier. In another Washington ceremony, he placed a rose in a floral anchor that was deposited in the Potomac in honor of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Calls for Prayer

President Truman, in his Memorial day proclamation, called on all the people of the United States to set aside an hour (beginning at 8 p. m. EST) for special prayer for permanent peace.

This year's Memorial day comes at a time when almost 40,000 armed forces dead in World War II have been returned to the United States for final interment. Preparations are continuing for the return of other thousands at the request of relatives.

Those who still rest where they fell overseas were not forgotten. There were three main memorial services opened to the public in Europe—at Foy, Belgium; Margraten, Holland; and Solers, France—where thousands lie in U. S. cemeteries.

Services In Pacific

Services arranged in the Pacific included ceremonies atop Mount Suribachi on Iwo Jima.

Speeches in America included one by Gen. Omar Bradley, Army chief of staff, at Longmeadow, Mass.

"We who fail to prevent them (wars)," Bradley said, "must share in the guilt for the dead." At the same time, he said America must never "cringe from the necessity of meeting issues boldly with principle, resolution and strength."

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas spoke at Hyde Park, N. Y., services in memory of President Roosevelt.

"If we who loved Franklin Roosevelt would honor him, we must take the lead in dispelling fear by coming to grips with the problems of our time," Douglas said.

4 NAVAL FLIERS DIE IN 3-PLANE CRASH

By The Associated Press

STUART, Fla., May 31—Four naval reserve pilots were found dead yesterday near three crashed training planes on the edge of the swampy everglades.

Naval authorities said apparently the three single-engine planes crashed during a violent thunderstorm late Saturday. They were part of a 12-plane formation enroute from Birmingham, Ala., to Miami.

Six of the 12 planes reached Miami Saturday night, reporting bad weather. Two landed safely at the old Army air base near Boca Raton and a third landed at Naples on the west coast.

Lt. Cmdr. Thomas H. Rentz at southeastern naval reserve headquarters in Atlanta said the four fliers were all ex-combat men.

On inactive duty now, they are volunteers for training flights over the weekend.

He identified the four, all from Birmingham, as Ensign C. L. Askew, Ensign W. G. Pieck, Ensign H. J. Mulkey and First Lt. R. D. Russell of the Marines.

RUSSIA GETS JEWISH PLEA

Irgun Zvai Leumi Asks for Help Against "Arab-British Aggression."

By The Associated Press

TEL AVIV, ISRAEL, May 31—Irgun Zvai Leumi appealed to Russia last night for help in stamping out the "Arab-British aggression" in the Holy Land.

In an official radio broadcast, the Jewish fighting arm said it was appealing to the Soviet Union as a nation which recognized the new state of Israel and agreed to an exchange of diplomatic representatives.

Irgun charged that Britain, with the help of the U.S. state department, put through the United Nations security council a proposal of a "Spanish pattern." Irgun added that this pattern would result in banning arms to the Jews, but left ways open for the Arabs to obtain equipment.

Both Sides Claim Military Victories

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, May 31—Jews and Arabs claimed important military conquests in the Holy Land last night as Arab armies appeared grouping for an onslaught on Tel Aviv.

Military developments occurred swiftly in the Holy Land on a Sunday marked by a Jewish statement that the Arab legion of Trans-Jordan was planning to use gas in an attack last night on Jerusalem's new city.

An Israeli government spokesman made the charge in Tel Aviv. Dispatches from Jerusalem gave no confirmation. A telegram filed late this afternoon said Jerusalem was relatively quiet today except for sporadic mortar bombing of the center of town and the belt Israel quarter.

Meanwhile, top-ranking Israeli officials and the Arab League's political committee prepared to consider the United Nations security council's latest truce proposal. The council called on Arabs and Jews Saturday night to agree by 6 p. m. Tuesday on a four-week cease fire throughout the Holy Land.

Arab Leader Belligerent

Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary-general of the Arab league, said today in Cairo that "the Zionists who started this war in Palestine must be left alone to take the punishment they deserve." He did not say, however, whether the political committee will accept or reject the proposal when it meets today.

There has been no immediate reaction from the Jews, although a Jewish spokesman at Lake Success denounced the proposal as a British scheme to give the Arabs the advantage of "stockpiled" arms. Azzam Pasha claimed the truce would be to Jewish advantage.

AP Correspondent Joseph C. Goodwin, with the Arab legion in central Palestine, told in a dispatch of the apparent forming of allied forces for the battle of Tel Aviv.

Czechs Cast Protest Vote

Many Blank Ballots Turned in, but Peoples' Government Wins.

By The Associated Press

PRAGUE, May 31—Blank protest votes against Czechoslovakia's communist-led government's single parliamentary election ticket totalled more than a half-million last night with more than half the total vote counted.

However, these returns, announced at midnight, gave Premier Klement Gottwald's "peoples' democracy" government the majority of 'yes' votes it demanded.

There are slightly more than 8,000,000 registered voters in Czechoslovakia.

At midnight the ministry of interior had counted a total of 4,378,060 votes. An announcement said 3,606,805 government ballots were cast in Bohemia-Moravia and 659,167 in Slovakia.

Protest votes counted were: 393,342 in Bohemia-Moravia and 121,088 in Slovakia.

At that hour only 36 districts, including the Prague area, remained to be counted in Bohemia-Moravia and 22 districts in Slovakia.

Slovakia Protests

Several districts of Slovakia cast heavy protest votes, one amounting to 39 per cent in the Trstena district of northern Slovakia. This was over-balanced by several districts around Bratislava where nearly 100 per cent of the ballots cast were pro-government.

Several districts in Bohemia also cast almost solid votes for the hand-picked government list which could not lose. This was the case in Louny, a village in the Kladno mining district where President Eduard Benes has one of his summer homes.

Earlier, Interior Minister Vaclav Nosek said the elections were without incident. He told a radio

THREE TOUGH LABOR CASES NEAR CRISIS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 31—Three of the nation's toughest labor disputes head into crucial stages this week. They could tie the country's economy and defense plans in knots if walkouts actually occurred.

The disputes involve John L. Lewis' 400,000 soft coal miners, about 900 AFL atomic energy workers at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and 190,000 members of three railroad brotherhoods, now working only because the court ordered them to.

In addition to these three, the threat of a shipping strike which could stall the European aid program is in the offing. CIO contracts on all coasts expire June 15. A strike of CIO-National Maritime Union members on the Great Lakes already is under way.

The Lewis case goes before Justice T. Alan Goldsborough on Wednesday. General Counsel Robert N. Denham of the national labor relations board is seeking

WATER BURSTS THROUGH INTO CITY OF 18,500

First Break in Bulwarks Protecting Metropolitan Area from Flood.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore., May 31—An unknown number of persons living in the war built Vanport housing center were drowned yesterday when a wall of water burst through a protective dike surrounding the low-lying area of 18,500 persons.

* * *

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore., May 31—A wave of water burst into the water built Vanport community of 18,500 persons in north Portland late yesterday as a railroad fill gave away to the backwater from the flooding lower Columbia river.

The U. S. Army engineer corps said details of the first break of the bulwarks protecting the metropolitan Portland area was lacking immediately.

A spokesman reported a Southern Pacific railroad track fill, part of the secondary protective works counted on to hold back the river flood, had given away and the water poured through the gap.

The Red Cross has been organizing an evacuation plan for the war housing community for the past two days and it is presumed that trucks and busses were thrown into the operation immediately.

There were no immediate reports of casualties.

Rainier Dike Bursts

A few hours earlier a dike burst at Rainier, Ore., just west of Portland, and water poured through a 60 foot gap into some 1500 acres where an estimated 200 persons reside.

The engineers said they were unable to fill the gap there and ordered all residents from the zone.

The river has risen rapidly here this morning as the river flood swept seaward from the stricken upper valley area that embraces the three Pacific northwest states and two Canadian provinces.

The death toll of the regional flood now stands at 17 and engineers reported the damage estimated of $30,000,000 issued yesterday would now be sharply increased. The engineers added it was too early to make an estimate of damage to the lower Columbia area.

The break in the Portland area brought the full impact of the region's worst flood in 54 years to the doorstep of the only major Metropolitan area in its path.

Destruction Spreads

The bulging Columbia and its tributaries spread new destruction for 100 miles down through Central Washington state today.

Worst hit was Okanogan county in the northern part of the state where a stream wrecked one-fourth of a village of 200 and carried a flood-fighter to his death.

Several thousand were homeless today over the newly-ravaged area as the steadily rising waters surrounded their places.

The wrecked village in Okanogan county was Conconully. Waters of Salmon creek, fed by the melting of deep snows in the mountains and heavy rains, hit the town. Sheriff's officers said 25 per cent of its buildings were upset or heavily damaged.

One resident died in the river. He was Cy Walters, 70, one of several men who were sandbagging the approaches of a bridge and were catapulted into the river when the bank gave way.

Many Homeless

Two thousand more were estimated homeless in Okanogan county alone. Sheriff's officers said all roads into the Okanogan valley were either impassable or studded with detour signs. All of the Methow valley was described as impassable.

Several bridges in the county were reported washed out or threatened.

Three hundred were driven from their homes in Omak and Okanogan, the two largest cities in the county. Workers were holding their own against the waters in Oroville, Tonasket, Winthrop and Twisp. But Oroville was without power, Tonasket had no phone connection with the outside, Winthrop was isolated both by road and phone and Twisp had a single phone line to the outside.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Aftermath of a Minor Injury

Minor injuries, such as sprain, may have a serious and painful aftermath known as causalgia. Due to nerve irritation, causalgia lasts far longer than the original injury and may ultimately cause a disabling wasting of the muscles of the affected arm or leg.

This disorder which most frequently occurs in the arm, is progressive. During the first stage of this condition, the arm may be warm and dry. The only symptom is burning pain which comes on periodically. The muscles of the arm may be stiff and are usually slightly swollen, particularly around the joints but, in almost all cases the pain is limited to the area where the injury occurred.

In the second stage of this disorder, the swelling around the joint spreads to the surrounding tissues. The affected arm becomes cold and hard, and the skin may have a bluish color. The joints become stiff and the muscles begin to waste away.

The pain becomes continuous and may affect the entire limb. If the leg is affected, there may be excessive sweating.

In the past, this condition has been treated by injecting local anesthetics into the nerve pathways along the spine in order to block the disordered nerve impulses which are responsible for the condition.

More recently, it has been suggested that the condition may be treated satisfactorily by giving an injection into a vein or muscle of a substance known as tetraethylammonium chloride. This treatment is much more easily carried out than the injections into the nerves along the spine.

It has been found that the pain may be completely and permanently elliminated by injections of the tetraethylammonium chloride given daily for five consecutive days. During the first half hour after the injection, the blood pressure may drop and the pulse rate increase. The patient may have a slight feeling of sickness at the stomach, blurring of the vision, tingling sensations, dizziness, or drowsiness. If the injection is given into a muscle, the reaction is less than when given into a vein, but lasts longer. However, all of these symptoms clear up and there are no harmful after-effects.

These reactions may be checked to some extent by giving an injection under the skin of epinephrine. It would appear that this new method gives a simpler and more successful remedy for a painful disorder.

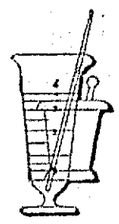
J. P. What makes the scalp feel tight, sore and numb at times?

Answer: Such a condition is probably due to a nervous disturbance.

A thorough study by a physician is advisable.

Guard Your Health as You Protect Your Home



● Buying medicine from the itinerant peddler or the corner quack is a dangerous practice. Many people take medicine almost constantly who do not need it at all. Many others take medicine entirely unsuited to the particular illness from which they suffer. Why take such unnecessary chances? Your health is your most valuable possession. When you are ill see your physician. Then bring the prescription he hands you to us for expert compounding.

Marion Postal Clerk Ends 40 Years of Work in Mail Service

More than 40 years of service in the Marion postoffice ended today with the retirement of Willis H. Rider of 665 Marne avenue, a city distribution clerk. Actually Mr. Rider retired from active duty Friday, the day before his sixty-first birthday anniversary which was Saturday.

Mr. Rider began his services with the local office Nov. 15, 1906. "Back in the horse and buggy days," as a rural carrier. His first route was No. 4, which was territory north of Marion later he was transferred to route 6, which served patrons in the city. There were plenty of mud roads to travel in those early days he recalls. It also meant long work days and early rising for the horse had to be fed and curried before starting out and made comfortable for the night after the day's chore. Later he purchased an automobile which he used in the summer but had to rely on Old Dobbin for transportation over the heavy and nearly impassable winter roads.

On May 1, 1923, Mr. Rider was appointed a city carrier, a position he held until Dec. 1 of the following year when he was appointed a distribution clerk.

Mr. Rider served under five postmasters. He received his appointment under Mr. B. Dickerson, and served under Frank Campbell, French Crow, L. L. Lamborn and the present postmaster, Homer D. Cole, "all good men," Mr. Rider states.

Mr. Rider has no particular plans for his vacation but guesses he will "find enough to do around home for a while."

ASHLEY—A meeting of the Future Farmers and Fameretes of Ashley 4-H club was held recently at Ashley school, when a vote to select the member who is to have the pig was taken, and the choice fell to David Thurston. He is to choose the kind of gilt to raise. There was a discussion on cows, different breeds and on anatomy. The next meeting will be held Thursday night.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—It takes a long, long time to clean up a battlefield.

It isn't finished when the mortal debris and the broken weapons are taken away and the crops cover the maimed earth again.

There's much more to it than that. It takes generations to clean up a battlefield. One lifetime for the hurt to heal, perhaps several lifetimes for the hate to heal. And eventually someone has to foot the bill for the battlefield.

Hal Boyle

America lays memorial wreaths on the graves of all the servicemen who died to keep the nation's pattern of freedom. It is a land still busy cleaning up its battlefields, old and new.

Only two of its nine wars have been written off the books. They are the Revolutionary war and the war of 1812. The others are still being paid for.

I don't know what the Revolutionary war cost to fight, but at least 4,044 of the 250,000 to 395,000 soldiers were killed. The government afterward paid pensioners $70,000,000.

The war of 1812-15 cost $119,624,000 to fight. Incomplete records list 1,956 of the 528,274 troops as killed. Hiram Cronk, the last veteran of the war, died in 1905. But one widow of an 1812 soldier was still getting a $50 a month pension in 1938.

UP UNTIL 1933 the U. S. paid out $46,207,000 in War of 1812 pensions.

The last veteran of the war with Mexico died well over a decade ago, but a few months ago 47 dependents of the soldiers of 1845 were on the pension rolls. The war cost $173,298,000 to fight and the lives of 1,549 of the 116,597 men who served. Total pensions paid up to 1933 were $60,424,346.

Memorial Day is an outgrowth of the first U. S. billion dollar war — the "Civil-War-Between-the-States," which cost the North alone $3,000,000,000 in four years, 110,070 battle dead and 221,791 who died of disease.

But the government by 1933 had expended $7,698,594,101—twice initial cost of the war—to the Union veterans. The southern states paid the Confederates, of whom 56 still live. There are only 52 living Union veterans—but last September 18,351 persons were still on the Civil war pension list.

The brief Spanish-American war cost $1,901,962,000 but only 700 American lives in battle. Some 280,564 saw service. By 1933 Spanish-American war pension costs totaled $811,819,000.

But all these were peanut wars in terms of cost compared to the two World wars.

THE FIRST WORLD WAR sent 4,800,000 Americans into uniform. More than 51,000 were killed, or died of combat wounds and 56,000 died of "flu" and other diseases. The treasury in 1920 estimated the tab for this conflict at $24,000,000,000. In 1927 Treasury Secretary Andrew Mellow raised the estimate to $47,957,272,333. Still owed and unpaid by foreign countries from this First World war is about $15,000,000,000.

The Second World war cost soared above three hundred billion dollars. It cost more in blood, too, than any previous American war — about 275,000 lives. And more than 14,300,000 men entered the armed forces—more than the total that had fought in our country's eight other wars.

Today there are in America 18,400,000 veterans of its wars. Well above 3,000,000 disabled veterans or survivors of deceased veterans draw monthly pensions. The veterans' program this year will cost about twice what it cost Abraham Lincoln to wage a four-year war.

It takes a long, long time to clean up a battlefield.

One Thing at a Time

RUSSIA'S lend-lease account with the American people is approximately 11 billion dollars; this country's reverse lend-lease account with Russia is approximately 2 billion dollars. There has been nothing done to make a settlement. But things are looking brighter. It is barely possible the United States will get some kind of a settlement for the non-military supplies that Russians have used for peaceful purposes. The Soviet ambassador to this country has said he is going to Moscow to get new instructions on the matter. If the instructions are new, they must be better than the old ones, which apparently were to sit tight and say nothing.

There is no chance to recover anything from the cost of the airplanes, tanks, trucks and other fighting equipment sent to Russia They are subject only to some form of paper settlement But for material sent to Russia after the end of the war, settlement in kind is possible. It would be as direct a manifestation of good faith as the Kremlin could give, a token payment for billions of dollars' worth of war equipment sent to the Russian people, to save them from the consequences of their own government's inability to give them what they needed to drive out the German invaders

That was a gift to a brave people The Russians themselves were grateful. Their government never was anything but suspicious of American intentions If it should be the desire of the Kremlin now to make amends, however small, they would be worth the effort The American people are painfully aware that they, their children and their children's children will pay for the cost of lend-lease while paying for a rearmament program of their own, made necessary by the Kremlin's policy of obstructionism

Foster's Against It

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, chief of the Communist party in the United States, has been permitted to testify before a congressional committee on proposed legislation to restrict his followers' activities in the United States Of course he was opposed to the idea. No one expected him to be otherwise.

But it must make an impression on even so case-hardened a witness as Foster that he was given a chance to speak his piece in public. No one was afraid of what he had to say. He had as attentive and impartial a hearing as anyone else who appeared at the hearing.

The United States may or may not adopt additional legislation to deal with the problem of internal and external security created by the activities of communists within its borders Congress is capable of making a wise decision on the issue of whether or not the particular proposal known as the Mundt-Nixon bill would do any good.

In the meantime, it still recognizes the thing that promises most for blocking Communist mischief in the United States—the thing that has held American Communists at bay since World War I. It lets them speak their pieces. It keeps them out in the open, depending on the public to make its own judgment of their program of mischief.

The Hopefuls

DR. CLAUDE A. WATSON, Prohibition party candidate for President, has stirred up a blast of guffaws by predicting he will poll 24,000,000 votes next November. "How does he get that way?" ask the political realists

Certainly Dr Watson didn't get that way by polling less than 75,000 votes in 1944, a black year for the hopefuls who always run but never get anywhere. Norman Thomas, the hardy perennial, lined up only 80,518 votes and Edward A. Teichert only 45,336.

The names of some of the hopefuls are well known—Thomas, Watson, Browder, Debs, Foster and Reynolds. Prohibition party candidates have included such little known men as Black, Smith, Dow, St. John, Fisk, Bidwell, Levering, Woolley, Swallow, Chafin, Hanly, Watkins, Varney, Babson and Upshaw. They have been running, with few exceptions, in every national election since the last quarter of the 19th century.

There have been few times when the combined vote for the hopefuls, had it been given entirely to a major candidate, would have made any substantial difference in the outcome of the election But voters who cast ballots for hopefuls probably never could be persuaded to vote for a real contender; it would be against their nature, which is to find satisfaction for their ego in casting a protest vote against an arrangement that has made no allowance for their minority viewpoint

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

The Atom Bomb and Preparedness.

THE very existence of the atom bomb has changed the psychology of all nations toward self-defense. The assumption is too general to be safe, that the countries which may have the bomb need only use it to win the next war. As of today, only the United States is known to have the bomb; it is assumed that Soviet Russia is devoting a very large part of its revenue to produce it.

SOKOLSKY

"But no country is safe because it has the bomb. General Leslie R Groves, who was in charge of actually making the bomb, said recently in a speech:

"The atomic bomb is not by itself a complete weapon. It has to be delivered. And this requires men, equipment and organization. Against Japan we delivered the bomb by air but before we could do this, we needed a base from which our planes could take off. We used Tinian, not far from Guam But United States forces, sea, air and ground, had to fight to get Tinian If we had used bases further removed from Japan the chances of success, particularly success without American casualties, would have been much less. As a matter of fact, if we had not captured Okinawa our Nagasaki plane could not have returned to an American-held airport . . . ."

Plenty of Help Needed

In other words, even if a country owns the bomb, it must still have an Army, Navy, and an air force The elimination of any one of these arms or the reduction of any one of them to inefficiency might make the bomb impotent. Even more, we require the raw materials that produce the bomb and other arms. For instance, the United States requires large quantities of bauxite to be transformed into aluminum In 1946, more than 4,000,000,000 pounds were procured for this country, of which 52.8 per cent came from the United States and 47.2 per cent from British Guiana, Curacao, Jamaica and Surinam

Chrome ore is very valuable—more than 1,500,000,000 pounds were purchased in 1946 of which only 1.6 per cent came from the United States and Canada. From Africa and India, alone, the United States imported 50.6 per cent. Manganese ore, absolutely essential, of which 3,500,000,000 pounds were used in 1946, was nearly all imported, only 3 per cent being found in the United States and Mexico Nearly half of the amount consumed came from India and Soviet Russia. I have no exact figures on uranium ore used in making the atom bomb, but none came from the United States. As for tin, we used, in 1946, 184,000,000 pounds of tin ore, and imported every pound of it.

One Vital Fact

One could go on giving the figures for many essential commodities. But it all leads to the same conclusion: viz, that the sea lanes must be kept open. No atom bomb, no biological warfare will keep the sea lanes open. The atom bomb has not made freedom of the seas antiquated nor has it made world trade antiquated.

Too many vested interests put pressures on the public thought on this subject. The airplane builders, in particular, overemphasize their importance. What is needed is a well-rounded program which resists these pressures and faces the very cold and dull facts of our very unpleasant situation

An editor in Springfield, Mass., once complained that I peddled platitudes, for which I thank the Lord We have become such ardent advocates of the impractical and the unrealistic that a few platitudes might do us a bit of good. After all, the 10 commandments are a compilation of platitudes which are just as true today as when they were first issued, although many thousands of years have passed since then.

It is like that with national defense. The country is best prepared which has all that it takes to defeat an enemy. It is no good having something special that nobody else has and too little of the usual things that everybody uses Nobody has yet thrived on a diet of caviar and pickled ducks' tongues, but bread and butter and a glass of milk will do in a pinch Let's be sensible and, if necessary, ordinary as well as extraordinary in this matter of national defense

Ohio Constitutional Reform

A GENERAL housecleaning of constitutional law in Ohio will be proposed to voters in 1952. The question will be whether or not to convene a constitutional convention. The last general revision of the state's basic law was carried out by a convention which met in 1912 The changes it adopted went into effect during the administration of Governor James M Cox.

The existing Constitution, dating back to 1851, calls for submission of the revision question every 20 years. This provision was included to give voters periodic opportunities to reopen the state's basic law for general review.

A list of proposed constitutional reforms prepared by political science scholars in Ohio colleges and universities includes the following fundamental changes:

A wider rule of home rule authority for municipalities and counties.

Automatic redistribution of representation in the United States Congress and the Ohio General Assembly after each national census.

A four-year term for the governor of the state

Four-year terms for state senators.

Selection of judges by executive appointment, instead of by popular vote, with voters allowed to decide every four years whether or not appointees should continue to sit on the bench.

Appointment of all policy-making executive officials by the governor and selection of a state auditor by the state legislature.

Division of counties electing more than three state representatives into districts, each represented by a single lawmaker.

Provision for redistribution of state tax revenues to local government in amounts sufficient to compensate for tax income lost under the 10-mill property tax limit

These basic recommendations and a number of others dealing with elimination of dead wood in the present state constitution have been prepared by a committee headed by Dr Harvey Walker of Ohio State University

Don't Swat the Honey Bee!

THERE is plenty of honey in the United States, but there are far too few honeybees

Commercial honey production by the more than five million man-managed honeybee colonies in 1947 totaled 228,000,000 pounds—somewhat more than the stepped-up average production of World War II years. With sugar again plentiful, the honey stockpile reported at the year's end was six times that of a year earlier.

Every state, however, would welcome more honeybees. Nature's balance has been changing steadily since the machine age came to farming. Honeybees, valued for centuries as the chief source of sweetness, are more important today as pollinating agents.

The honeybee must do five-sixths of America's pollinating job. It cares for virtually all fruit and flower blossoms, for clover, alfalfa, and other livestock supporting plants. A bee shortage means lowered production even in most fertile plants. Red clover when well pollinated, for example, will yield ten times the present national average production of its seed.

Orchardists, recognizing this principle, have for many years rented honeybee colonies for their blossom seasons. Investing $5 or more per hive, they come out far ahead on the deal. Hives are plugged at night when the bees are inside and trucked to the orchard locations.

Right Back Where He Started From

More than a dozen pieces of major legislation requested by the President in his state of the union message last January have not been acted upon.

Truman proposes but congress disposes

If the present trend continues, they're going to have to remodel the Capitol to provide some king-size pigeonholes.

When Truman moved into the White House everyone thought, he having been a member of the senate, that the President and congress would get along famously, not feudingly.

But it proved to be a case of familiarity breeding vetoes.

Of course, it may have been that Harry should have sent his messages to congress marked RSVP instead of MUST

At any rate, the Eightieth congress has done Truman one favor: He won't have to bother with getting up a new program for the Eighty-first.

Sleepers

The American Municipal Association reports growing attention throughout the country to traffic sleepers—abandoned and incorrectly parked automobiles.

Increased traffic congestion has stiffened the determination of city governments to get rid of autos in places where they don't belong.

More and more cities are passing tow-in ordinances and other cities with neglected ordinances are starting enforcement drives.

Baltimore's new ordinance authorizing police to impound abandoned or improperly parked autos is backed up by a fleet of new tow trucks and a specially assigned unit of 14 patrolmen. The police department charges $5 for towing in a car and storing it 48 hours, plus $1 storage fee for each additional day. Owners of impounded cars also are subject to traffic fines ranging from $5.75 to $10.75.

In San Francisco, parking on no-stop streets during rush hours is being dealt with in a similar fashion. Thirty-nine no-parking areas have been designated in an effort to ease traffic congestion. If a car towed in by police is locked, it remains locked at the garage until claimed If it is unlocked, police list the car's contents and post the list on the windshield.

This Man Warren

By Joseph Alsop

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

EARL WARREN, who governs California from this pleasant, pretty city, is the least known of major American political figures. This is too bad, for Warren is also one of the three or four most impressive senior Republicans, if one may judge from two hours' frank talk. Furthermore, although he is not one of those who toss all night with dreams of the White House, Warren is a serious candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Joseph Alsop

This week, with the Republican convention delegates chosen, Warren's emissaries are going out through the country. They are explaining to Republican leaders Warren's pre-eminent availability, in the quite possible event of a deadlock in the convention. Warren himself thoroughly understands that a convention deadlock is far more likely to result in a movement to draft Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, whom he warmly admires. But he is preparing to take his chance with shrewd, good-humored equanimity.

In any event, he is legally entitled to hold the big California delegation until he chooses to release it. And thus, whatever happens, he is bound to be one of the half-dozen commanding personalities when the delegates gather at Philadelphia.

A View of Warren

What sort of fellow, then, is this man Warren? In the first place, he is a second-generation Scandinavian American, and looks it. (If nominated and elected, he would be the first occupant of the White House whose father and mother were immigrants. He is a solid, easy-moving, quiet-spoken man, with the big Scandinavian build, and the broad, small-featured, pleasant Scandinavian face. Put a blue cap on him, weather his skin a little and he might be a big Norwegiaon sea captain. He walks through the California Capitol corridors as a rather genial sea captain might walk his vessel's familiar deck And although he shows no signs of wishing to imitate the autocracy of the master of a ship, he is reputed to have steered California knowingly through very difficult times

For purposes of this report, however, his appearance is considerably less important than his views These are generally supposed to be mysterious and imprecise In fact, however, he has just surveyed the whole panorama of American policy, both domestic and foreign, saying where he stands on almost every issue, in a radio broadcast that has received infinitely too little attention in the country.

No Double Talk

In this broadcast, which was his sole rather obscure campaigning gesture, Warren did not speak in terms of specific measures, so that one cannot say whether he would support this bill or oppose that. But if he was not indulging in the worst kind of double talk—and no man, on first meeting at least, seems less likely to do so—Warren is strongly on the progressive side right down the line.

No such comprehensive and progressive program, covering all the many thorny home issues like housing, resources use and health and education, as well as dealing firmly, wisely and practically with foreign policy, has yet been offered by any other Republican

The speech deserves to be reprinted in full and widely read There is no space here to cover it in detail, but one point is too significant to omit. This is Warren's keynote, which takes the form of the statement: "The American people want to know whether the Republican party has grown with the years, whether it has learned from the world-shaking events of recent years."

This problem, you learn as you talk to Warren, is his chief preoccupation. Very few Republicans in Washington are wise enough to realize, as they sniff the heady scents of victory next November, what peril awaits them thereafter.

Peril Obvious

Yet the peril is visible in the form of the paunchy representatives of every greedy special interest in the United States, come out of hiding and stalking the Capitol corridors. These men are now surrounded by membrs of Congress slapping them on the back and calling them "good old Bill." If the next Republican President is not a strong and wise man, the election will be followed by such a scene of snatch and grab, such a carnival of turning the clock back, such a wholesale surrender to reaction as will turn the collective stomach of the country.

What Republicans in Washington too rarely notice, Warren has had the vision to observe from the distance of California. He says simply that if the Republican party goes this road, it will be dead and finished in four years. And he observes sensibly that while another Republican defeat would not be inherently disastrous, the present disunity and decay of the American Left might make a failure of the Republicans a real disaster in 1952. Until the Left has returned to health, it is not safe for the Right to fail.

Query Regarding A Vanishing American

He liked to look before he leapt,
He tried to use his head;
He much preferred to be convinced
Instead of being led;
He didn't follow blindly on
A course, however grim,
And found a "by-the-nose" routine
A bit too much for him.

II

He wasn't hasty with his views
And wasn't long on hate;
If things were not yet clear to him
He could afford to wait;
He thought it quite a good idea
In issues deep and wide
To check and see if he could get
The public on his side.

III

He didn't shrug his shoulders and
Say, "I do what I'm told";
He had opinions of his own
And liked facts hard and cold;
He had respect for Uncle Sam
And didn't laugh or sneer
At pleas made by his government
When chaos seemed quite near.

IV

When things were mediated he Did not say "I'll obey,
Provided that the board, of course,
Decides the case my way"
He didn't hold the notions that,
Unless he won the fight,
No arbitration counted and
That he alone was right

V

He only wanted trouble when
It was a last resort,
And never tossed a monkey wrench
For jolly indoor sport,
He'd say "A strike had better wait
While hot heads cease to fizz",
His motto was, "Don't rock the boat!"—
I WONDER WHERE HE IS!

The Year 2000 AD

By TRUMAN TWILL

It's the year 2000 A. D. There have been some changes made. The standard of living has advanced Everybody owns a portable television set that keeps the sights and sounds of the modern world at their fingertips It also gives them the privilege of looking at and listening to old news reels

An old man and his grandson are absorbed in one of these historic flashbacks showing how people lived in 1950, half a century ago A street scene shows hundreds of automobiles "Did everybody use to own an automobile?" the child asked, watching the picture in wide-eyed amazement.

"Nearly everybody," replied the old man "They used to call automobiles a necessity I can recall that when I was your age even poor people on public relief used to drive automobiles. Gasoline was cheap, in fact everything was . . ."

The child interrupted him. A horse had appeared on the screen. "Look at the horse," he squealed. "I didn't know you had horses too when you were a little boy. Gee, you were lucky—horses and automobiles Everybody must have been awfully rich."

"Yes, there were horses then," sighed his grandfather. "But they were a luxury, the same as automobiles are now Rich people kept them for riding and racing, though a few were used for farm work and to pull bakery wagons and so on. It's a funny thing about horses and automobiles."

"What do you mean?" the child asked, innocently.

"Why I mean that horses once were a necessity," replied his grandfather "That was before my time, But everybody used horses If you didn't own one, you hired one. People couldn't get along without horses, at least that's what they thought. Then a man named Henry Ford learned how to make automobiles so cheap that people thought they couldn't get along without automobiles.

"Horses became rare. People who could afford to have them were said to belong to the horsey set. Ordinary folks couldn't have horses the same way as . . ."

The child interrupted again. "The same way as ordinary folks now can't afford to belong to the automobile set," he said, finishing the old man's thought.

"That's it," his grandfather said. "Only the rich can afford automobiles now. Ordinary folks—like us—have to ride bicycles or use public transportation. Even if we could afford to own automobiles, the streets are so crowded we wouldn't get much good out of them Perhaps it's better, all things considered, but I used to have a lot of fun driving a car when I was a young man."

The child flipped off the television switch and rolled up the screen. "What happened that made the automobile too expensive for ordinary folks to own?" he asked quietly. His grandfather smiled. "It's a long story," he said, "and a complicated one. You'll learn all about it when you study history. We advanced the standard of living so far that automobiles became too expensive.

"Do you think I can ever own an automobile?" the child asked "Or maybe a horse?"

"It all depends on you," the old man said. "Maybe you'll be able to buy a nice horse some day if you save your money. As it is, you're one of the lucky children whose daddies can afford to buy bicycles—don't forget that."

Special recognition will be given the winners during Ohio Poetry Week which will be observed in October. An anthology of verse will be published and other activities will mark the special observance. Mrs. Tessa Sweazy Webb of Columbus, is the founder of Poetry week and the participation by the schools is in charge of Howard Hamlin of the department of education.

Entries were received from schools in 77 of the 88 counties in the state this year, a report from the state department states. This, the report states, shows growth and a stimulation of interest among teachers and pupils in Ohio. The publication of an anthology, the sponsors point out, stimulates the revival of culture in educational programs, recognizes the efforts of teachers who are doing creative work in the schools and encourages pupils to write poetry and gives them public recognition for their best efforts.

FOUR AT CARDINGTON WIN FFA DEGREES

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, May 31—Four Cardington High school students set records of excellence in vocational agriculture high enough to win all four awards of the "state farmer degree" in Morrow county. The state farmer degree is the highest award of the Future Farmers of America and will be awarded at the annual convention of that group at Ohio State university June 4-5.

Louis Levering, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Levering of Cardington, Lawrence Philbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Philbrook of near Cardington, Dewey Yake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yake, of near Cardington, all seniors; and Gerald Davis, a junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davis of near Cardington, are the students who will receive the awards Friday night at University hall. All four Cardington winners will receive the coveted gold key denoting the highest award.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"Correct the first time," I told Mary, smiling. "I'm going to waken my small daughter, if—"

"If she hasn't beaten you to it?" she said. "Wanna bet?"

"Not on Faith, ever," I said.

"Anything you want me to do while you're gone?" she asked competently. "With your father 'in residence,' and probably wishing to be sped on his way, you'll have a lot on your mind."

"If you'll call Katharine, Dicky, and Noel — of course he'll be down for breakfast—and get their breakfast orders and your own, then telephone them down, with orders for breakfast at eight-fifteen, I'll be most grateful."

"What about Faith's, your father's and your own?" she asked.

"Father's never varies," I said. "Orange juice, bacon, two eggs, and toast, if there's no special hot bread on the menu. Mine will be fresh grapefruit juice, bacon, one egg, and whatever special hot bread they're serving. I'll let Faith off her cereal this morning, she may duplicate my order, except that she will have orange juice."

"Coffee, of course for you and your father," Mary said. "What about Faith? May she have her beloved chocolate milk this morning?"

"You're a good special pleader," I told her. "Have it your own way. But be sure to have the breakfast served in here at eight-fifteen, no later."

"You'll find the flunkey's standing at attendance," she promised, grinning. "And, I'll get at the telephoning before I dress. Consequently, I shall warn everyone to keep out of here until eighten. That goes for your crowd, also."

"'She-who-must-be-obeyed,'" I quoted, as I turned to the odor leading down to Faith's room.

"You bet your sweet life," she mocked as she went to the telephone. "Just try getting back ahead of time, and see what happens to you!"

"Icicles are dripipng down my spine already," I told her as I went out of the room. As I gently tiptoed into my small daughter's room, her voice piped from her pillows a dutiful: "Good morning, Mummy darling!" She was awake, as I had more than half expected her to be, and I shot an uneasy glance at Dicky's room next door in which my father was sleeping.

"You don't need to worry," she said in muted tones, and with the uncanny perception which sometimes is hers. "I've been just as still as a little mouse, and unless he wakened all by himself, he's still asleep.

"It would be just too terrible for words," she went on with high tragedy in her voice, "if he had wakened by himself. Do you think he could have, Mummy?"

"I am very sure he hasn't," I told her, salving my conscience with the assurance that her adoring grandfather would put on a most convincing act of profound slumber, even if he had roused before the time set for her to come in.

"Then," she said, scrambling out of bed, "may I go in now and land on his tummy to waken him? He promised I could."

"Yes," I told her, "but you will be careful not to come down hard, won't you? Granddad is an old man, you know."

"He, he isn't," she said with stout loyalty. "He'll never be old, Granddad won't. But, I'll be careful, just the same. Want to come along and see me jump?" she added, with the air of a queen holding out a scepter.

"I'd love to," I told her truthfully, and followed her into the room, seeing at a glance from the carefully arranged position of the pillow "over his midriff," and from his too-tightly closed eyes that my father was only pretending slumber. But Faith was plainly ecstatic in the belief that her grandfather was sound asleep.

"Watch me!" she whispered, as she climbed cautiously on the foot rail, and poised for her leap.

"Wake up; you darling sleepy head!" she called, as she made a flying jump from the foot-rail.

100 GET DIPLOMAS FROM BUCYRUS HIGH

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, May 31—"Have a plan for your life and purpose in putting the plan across, show perseverance and a passion for right living," was the advice given to 100 Bucyrus High school graduates by Cameron Beck, former personnel director of the New York Stock exchange and nationally known lecturer and counselor, Friday night when he addressed the class on the occasion of the seventy-ninth commencement in Bucyrus High school.

As the most essential qualifications for success he listed character, intelligence and willingness to work.

The sudden illness of Mrs. S. E. Auck, member of the graduating class of 50 years ago given recognition during the service, who was overcome shortly before she planned to leave for the high school, cast a veil of gloom over the reunion of six of the 11 remaining members of the class of 19. Those present and presented with "diplomas in the school of life," were Mrs. Edith Wiseman of Mt. Gilead, Miss Jeannette Rexroth of Cleveland, Earl Reese of Toledo and Miss Clara Gehrisch, Mrs. Edith Miller and Josiah M. Ziegler, all of Bucyrus.

Diplomas were presented by J. W. Overholt, president of the school board. One member of the class, Charles Huggins, received his diploma from his father, James Huggins, a member of the school board.

Music included numbers by the high school choir, the brass quartet and the senior girls' ensemble. Invocation was given by the Rev. J. David Mumford of St. Paul's Lutheran church and the Rev. H. H. Glick of Good Hope Lutheran church pronounced the invocation.

SPEAKING TOUR SEEN AS TEST FOR TRUMAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 31 — President Truman's western speaking tour began to take on the form today of a test between those who don't—and those who do—want Mr. Truman to become the Democratic presidential nominee.

The President leaves Washington Thursday night for a western swing on which he will make five major speeches and any number of informal appearances.

A lot of pains has been taken at the White House toward making sure that everything runs smoothly and that Mr. Truman is presented to his fellow Americans in the best possible light.

In this connection, a pro-Truman Democratic official told a reporter the President will attempt to prove to members of his own party, as well as to the public, that he is the kind of a campaigner who can win in November no matter whom the Republicans nominate.

This official said that if it all turns out as he expects it to, the trip may take most of the wind out of the sails of those who hope they can get the July Democratic convention to discard the President.

On the other hand, this official said that if the reaction to Mr. Truman's speeches is not favorable—or if the President should make some damaging slip in off the cuff remarks somewhere—then those who say the President might eventually agree to step aside in the convention will have fresh ammunition.

There are signs that party leaders in such pivotal states as New York, Illinois and California will be watching the President's performance closely. Some of them still are threatening to kick over the traces.

CLUB MEETING WEDNESDAY

The program coordination committee of the Business and Professional Women's club will have charge of a dinner meeting of the club Wednesday at 6:45 p. m. at Hotel Harding. SENIOR CLASS SERVICE HELD

Rev. D. H. Hochstettler Delivers Annual Baccalaureate Sermon.

"Not Yet Perfect" was the subject on which Rev. D. H. Hochstettler talked to members of the senior class of Harding High school when he delivered the sermon at the class annual baccalaureate service held Sunday night in the Chautauqua pavilion in Garfield park. Rev. Hochstettler is pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church.

Rev. Hochstettler took his text from the third chapter of Philippians, the 14th verse, which reads "I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

The processional for the service, "Pomp and Circumstance," Elgar, and the recessional march from "Queen of Sheba," Gounod, were played by the Harding High school orchestra under the direction of Homer Huffman.

Choir Sings

Special music was by the high school a cappella choir, directed by L. G. Jones. Selections by the choir were "We Thank Thee, Lord," Bortnlansky-Tkach, "Dark Water," Burleigh, and "Were You There," James.

The invocation was given by Rev. Frederick W. Leech, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, the scripture reading from Philippians 3:7-17 was by Dr. Henry Schaeffer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, prayer was by Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church, and the benediction was by Rev. E. H. Wierth, pastor of the First Evangelical and Reformed church.

A hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," was sung by the audience, and the response, closing the service, "Lord Bless You and Keep You," was sung by the choir.

A program of recorded music preceded the service.

Rev. Hochstettler, in addressing the seniors, said in part:

"It is the common lot of all to be forced by events and circumstances to live at times in a way that denies the best we know. It does not follow, however that we must be contented with that which is forced upon us. It is that discontent which drives to better ones condition. It is the realization that we have not arrived, that we are not yet perfect that gives motive to every struggle. We reach constantly for something better and the perfection for which we strive is the pearl of great price for which we gladly sell all else that we might obtain.

No Victory Without Struggle

"There is no perfection possible without a contest and no victory without a struggle. Neither is it possible to stop before the last and final conquest, for to obtain the prize the race must be completed. Sad indeed is the runner who stops to admire the first hurdle. This is no stopping place even though a phase of the struggle is done. Life says "go on, forgetting what is past and reaching for the prize."

"The prize of the struggle necessarily lies outside of ourselves. Self sufficiency and egotism have their merits within limits, but the prize of Paul and the prize of a life worthwhile is the realization of the life of Christ in the individual. This alone is worthy of the struggle and wealth and power and success pale in the light of the more excellent prize of the life of Christ in man.

"The achievement of the ideal likewise lies without ourselves. No one obtains a reward unless he struggles and the struggle must be according to the laws of God. Disaster and chaos follow in the wake of those who choose their own rules. History has a way of proving the folly of those who choose to contradict the laws of the Infinite.

"The ability to achieve the ideal likewise is not ours but comes from God. Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord. The steadying influence of a deep and profound faith in God is the assurance of the perfection we seek and the promise that it shall be accomplished knowing that 'all things work together for good to them that love the Lord" and through it all, 'He will perfect that which concerneth me.'"

Nation's Death Toll Mounts to 137

By The Associated Press

The lives of at least 137 persons were snuffed out in accidents during the first two-thirds of the nation's Memorial day weekend.

This total was more than half of the predicted death toll of 225 from all accidental causes during the three-day holiday period.

Auto mishaps killed 86. Drowning accounted for 18.

Miscellaneous accidents, including airplane mishaps killed at least 33 others. The Ohio toll, included in these figures, was traffic death 6, miscellaneous 2.

With Monday's heavy homebound traffic still to be reckoned with, the traffic toll neared the 112 estimated by the National Safety council as the country's cost in lives for holiday automobile migration.

audience that for the first time in Czech history police were not need to patrol the polling booths.

The protest ballots were running roughly around 11 per cent all over Bohemia-Moravia and 17 per cent in Slovakia.

It appeared that some persons had managed to cast legal protest ballots, discard fake ones, and then pocket the government ballots, carrying them away from the polls with them.

Reporters on Tour

Some 70 foreign correspondents were taken on a tour of the polling place. American correspondents visited a school in central Prague near the national museum, a school in Liben, a Prague factory district, and a school in the Malestrana district near the foreign embassies and peopled by shopkeepers, clerks and other middle class residents.

In each, the procedure was the same:

The voter entered. It was determined that he carried with him both the ballot printed on both sides, with the list of the national front candidates for his district, and the blank ballot marked on one side with a huge cross.

He was issued an envelope. He could go behind a small three-sided screen to place either of the ballots in the envelope, emerge to place the envelope in the locked ballot box, and to discard the unvoted ballot into an open waste-basket.

There were stories that two methods of voting protests were employed, but they could not be confirmed.

Communists Gain In 3 Bavarian Cities

By The Associated Press

MUNICH, GERMANY, May 30—Incomplete municipal election returns indicated tonight that the German Communist party had made substantial gains in three Bavarian cities in the American occupation zone.

The gains were reported in Munich, Nuernberg and Hof after nearly 1,200,000 Bavarians voted to elect municipal councils in 41 cities. Communist gains, however, did not appear to be general throughout Bavaria.

It was the first election test for the Communist party which was permitted to engage in politics only a few months ago.

American officials in Nuernberg said they were "startled" by the early success of the Communists there.

Although they were running second, the Communists were far behind the city's Moderate Social Democrats. They thus far had out-distanced Bavaria's dominant party, the Conservative Christian Social union.

NEW TUCKER SHOWN IN CITY

Marion Man, Advertising Director for Company, Here with Car.

The first Tucker automobile to be seen in Marion attracted considerable attention late Sunday afternoon when the new rear engine model pleasure car was displayed for several hours at the Pete Goodin Motors, Inc., Tucker agency on North Main street.

Through the efforts of Cliff V. Knoble of 179 Stark court, advertising director for the Tucker Corp., the car was held here several hours while enroute back to Chicago from a tour of eastern states. The car was brought here from Columbus for the brief surprise showing.

Raymond J. Sherry, manager of the Goodin agency here said it was the first time the car had been on public display at a dealers location. Previous showings had been to distributors and dealers only.

Carried mounted on a tractor-trailer outfit, the dark green six passenger sedan attracted wide attention while here. spectators at one time so thick about the trailer that police were summoned to clear the resulting traffic block on North Main street.

Features drawing attention of spectators were the 150hp engine mounted above the rear axle, aircraft type instrument panel and front end carrying a center headlight in addition to the customary headlights set in the fenders. Other unusual features drawing comment were the air cooled brakes with small airscoops on the outside of the wheel covers.

Advertising Director Knoble, who accompanied the car on the tour, indicated a demonstrator would be made available to the local agency by mid-June. Mr. Knoble before becoming associated with the Tucker Corp. in Chicago was an account executive with Ruthrauff and Ryan an advertising agency in Detroit and at one time was advertising manager of the Chrysler Motor Corp.

"CAREER COUNSELOR" NAMED AT COLLEGE

Paul V. Barrett Appointed to New Post.

By The Associated Press

WOOSTER, O., May 31—Wooster college has hired an oil company executive for the unique role of "career counselor" to students, President Howard F. Lowry reported today.

Paul V. Barrett, personnel director of the Ohio Oil Co. at Findlay, was named to the post "to bring to the students a sense of their practical obligations—and to bring it straight from business," said Dr. Lowry.

The Wooster president asserted students "must see more and more two things: that a liberal education in itself is a vocational asset, that liberal education can be related to the later demands and opportunities of civic, business and professional life."

Dr. Lowry said Barrett, who will continue to hold two positions on a "commuter" basis, was assigned to "help students set their lifetime goals through friendly counsel. He will furnish vocational advice and information to students and aid in placing them upon graduation."

The new Wooster program, plus the college's suggestion that all students work at least eight weeks bdlongce orsvslvrs-? b-0graG*%, each summer, will minimize "one of the serious splits in modern life—the split between those who work with their heads and those who work with their hands," Lowry added.

Barrett, a graduate of Grinnell college, formerly was a YMCA secretary at Cincinnati, Columbus and Findlay.

Paul V. Barrett is widely known in Marion, were he has spoken on several occasions at luncheon club meetings. He was the speaker at two of Marion's annual vocational guidance programs for High school students.

U. S. Delegate Credited With Saving Truce Plan

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, May 31—The United States was credited here yesterday with saving Britain's Palestine armistice plan from a Soviet veto.

The United Nations security council is awaiting Jewish and Arab answers to the British proposal for peaceful mediation, which the council approved Saturday night.

Several delegates said they had hopes the Arabs and Jews would accept before the council deadline, which is 6 p. m. Tuesday.

The council called for a four-weeks' cease-fire in Palestine, an embargo during that period on sending arms and men into Palestine and the seven Arab countries, and for Jews and Arabs to cooperate with the UN mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden.

Authoritative circles credited American Delegate Warren R. Austin with playing a strong role in rewriting the British resolution to make it acceptable to the United States and at least tolerable to Russia.

Two-Car Garage Burns With Loss of $600

One major and one minor fire were reported by Chief Owen A. Sifritt for the weekend.

A two-car garage valued at $600 burned at 9:44 p. m. Saturday night at the farm of Robert Hoagland on Jonesboro road west of Marion. Cause of the fire was unknown. Heat of the fire was so great that it scorched the side of Hoagland's house and the side of the nearby house of Arthur Lessig. The fire burned with such intensity firemen report that fire department pumpers from West Center and Prospect street stations pumped water at 65 pounds pressure on the blaze for 50 minutes before it was extinguished. Damage to the Hoagland and Lessig houses was estimated at $75 each. The property occupied by Hoagland is owned by the Thompson estate.

At 8:23 p. m. Sunday night firemen from Mark and Prospect street stations were called to the corner of North Main and Fairground streets to extinguish a fire in a car driven by Dominic Spazania of 870 West Center street. Spazania told firemen the motor of the car backfired setting fire to the carburetor and wiring. Firemen estimated damage to the car at $10.

All-American Mother—Loves Her Homework

MOM'S ASSEMBLY LINE . . . Mrs. Charles H. Clarke of Thurmont, Md., with seven of her 12 children who range in age from 8 to 30.

By The Associated Press

THURMONT, Md.—The high cost of living is no joke for Mrs. Charles H Clarke who has to cook potatoes by the peck to feed her family of 12 children.

Mrs. Clarke was married when she was 20 and had 24 children, 12 of whom are still living. They range in age from 8 to 30, and include 16-year-old twins.

Despite the fact that she must rise at 4:30 to start packing lunches for the children who are still in school, and serve breakfast on an assembly-line system, Mrs. Clarke, placid and smiling at 52, still thinks housework is fun.

She measures her laundry by the bushel basket—ten baskets are a normal washday. In addition, she helps her husband take care of their acre farm, which helps cut down the food budget.

Mr. Clarke, 67, also runs a tavern restaurant for the mountain community, and takes turns getting dinner. During the war Mrs. Clarke served hot coffee and sandwiches to hitch-hiking soldiers, and has given 18 pints of blood to the Red Cross. In recognition of the latter service, the local Lions club once financed a trip for her to Los Angeles, for a radio appearance.

The children and Mr. Clarke took care of the chores for the week that she was gone. Mrs. Clarke admitted that she enjoyed the train trip—her first—but confessed that for the last 100 miles she was "sitting on the edge of the seat, anxious to get back to the children and the housework."

Rev. Murphy Speaks

"The Blessed Mother must indeed be smiling from her heavenly home this afternoon as the sweet strains of the songs of our love for her ascend heavenward," Rev. Murphy said in addressing the school, their parents and friends. "As she receives these tokens of our love for her at this beautiful coronation ceremony we may well imagine that her mind goes back to that first May crowning her own coronation as Queen of Heaven.

"Mary is our mother. We are her children. The Blessed Mother has a very special love for her children. Especially you of St. Mary's, who are enrolled under the banner of Mary. Your school days are spent under patronage of the Holy Mother. Many of the appearances of the Blessed Virgin on earth since her Assumption have been to children. To Bernadette at Lourdes was the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin confirmed. The three small children at Fatima were visited by Our Lady when she wanted to awaken the world to penance, to a love for the Rosary and a devotion and consecration to the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

"The Youth of today are the instruments of Our Lady. By your lives as children of Mary you carry her message to the world. Does not a little leaven ferment the whole loaf? A great task awaits you—you the chosen children of Mary. Where shall you begin, or how shall you carry out the message of plans of the Mother of God?

"The Blessed Mother wants you begin now to carry her message to the world by living your life as a child of Mary. She is ever before you to intercede for you. She, the dispenser of all God's graces, will shower you with the graces you need for your part in her plan. To enable you to live as children of Mary she has given you her own example as a light and guide to help you in the practice of virtue. Especially those virtues so lacking today.

"The virtue of faith. The world needs men of faith to drive out the air of scepticism that hovers like a dark cloud over the world today. Mary is our model of faith. The humble Jewish maiden who unhesitatingly believed the marvels of the angel at the annunciation will aid you to have a deep firm faith in all the truths revealed by God.

"The virtue of humility: The world mistakingly regards humility as a sign of weakness. You need the help of Humble Maiden of Nazareth to inspire you with the virtue of humility. That by this great virtue the children of Mary may crush the serpent pride who roams the earth today causing quarrels, strife and discord.

"The virtue of purity. As the Virgin of Virgins and the Mother Most Pure the Blessed Virgin guides, aids and directs her children along the path of purity. She knows the dangers her children must face each day. She is ever ready to lend you a helping hand, that you may by your virtuous life convert a world that laughs at this greatest of all virtues. A world which has lost all sense of values which see this world only as a place of false pleasure. The Blessed Mother wishes you to help restore to the world a true love for this great virtue of purity."

Special Music

At the close of the crowning of the statue the pupils renewed their Act of Consecration to the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Music for the exercises was by the school pupils and included the following: 'O Mary Fair Queen,' 'Hail! Virgin Dearest Mother," 'This Is the Image of Our Queen," 'Bring Flowers of the Fairest,' 'Hail Holy Queen Enthroned Above,' and 'On This Day O Beautiful Mother.'

The exercises were followed by benediction with the Most Blessed Sacrament, after which the school and congregation sang 'Holy God We Praise Thy Name.'

The belief that some species of snake have poisoned horns on their tails is false.

GOVERNOR TO MAKE SCHOOL INSPECTION

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 31—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert is going to find out whether village and country schools in four southeastern Ohio counties are unsafe.

He planned to start an automobile tour of Jackson, Scioto, Lawrence and Gallia counties Wednesday to check on reports that many school buildings in the state were in bad shape with conditions ranging from "deplorable" to "miserable" to "unsafe."

He said he was also looking into the extent of the need for reorganization of certain school districts as well as for construction of new buildings to replace those beyond repair.

One report by state inspectors cited closing of a school when "the building became so dangerous it was feared it would collapse and possibly kill one of the pupils."

Governor Herbert noted the $2,000,000 appropriation for the state school plant rehabilitation fund and said:

"I want to find out whether the state is doing all it can to help solve this problem. Next Wednesday's investigation and others to follow will help me determine what recommendations should be made to the next session of the legislature."

Accompanying him on the trip will be Dr. Clyde Hissong, state education director, Will on J. Rogers, industrial relations director, Albert D. St. Clair, field agent for the department of education, and Robert L. Ratcliffe, the governor's assistant secretary.

C. & O. Places Orders For New Passenger Cars

Special to The Star

CLEVELAND, May 31—Robert R. Young, chairman of the board of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co., today made the following statement in New York:

"Passenger car deliveries have been so incredibly slow that Chesapeake and Ohio has now canceled about one-third of the orders placed in 1946 for the older type of cars, and has substituted for these cars our new revolutionary Train 'X' equipment. It now looks as though our revolutionary Train 'X' will be experimentally on the rails by the time we could have expected to get the old type that was ordered in 1946.

"The Chesapeake and Ohio had had new passenger equipment on order for nearly three years, which is just now beginning to be delivered. Cars which we thought were to cost us only $90,000, in itself a ridiculous price, we now find may cost us nearly twice that sum. We, alone among the railroads, have had orders on the car builders' books to replace every old passenger car on all our main line-through trains."

The New York metropolitan area which includes some suburb contains about six per cent of the population of the United States.

Near 100, Iberia Woman Shares Centennial Honors with County

Special to The Star

IBERIA, May 31—While Morrow county observes its centennial during July 3, 4 and 5, it must share birthday honors with Mrs. Sarah Rhodebeck who will reach her one hundredth year in December.

The parents of Mrs. Rhodebeck Mr. and Mrs. Samuel and Rachel McClenethan, migrated to Ohio in 1833 from Washington county, Pa. The family drove through the trails in a "prairie schooner." Her sister rode in the feed box.

The McClenethan family established their home in a log cabin with the old type puncheon floor on the Aaron Smith farm near Iberia. Deer and other wild game were plentiful in the Whetstone valley in the early days of Morrow county.

Mrs. Rhodebeck recalls her mother's delivering butter to Mansfield by horse back in the early days, a trip of 25 miles. Her father also rode back to Pennsylvania on horse back to visit friends and relatives. Turkeys sold for 8 cents a pound, with the butter bringing 6 cents.

A few years after her birth in 1848, Mrs. Rhodebeck attended the Lone Star school and later became a student at the Ohio Central college at Iberia just 14 years before the late President Warren G. Harding enrolled.

MRS. SARAH RHODBECK

Today Mrs. Rhodebeck is blessed with good health and is able to tat, embroider and piece quilts. When asked what she did to have a good time she laughed and said, "I worked!" although she did recall attending many apple cuttings, corn husking bees and sled riding parties.

She divided her time, residing with two daughters, Mrs. Roy Gallegher and Mrs. David Snyder, whose ambition has been to help their mother attain the age of 100 years.

The 10-point horse show has prospects of being one of the biggest and best shows ever held in Mt. Gilead, members of the club said. A total of $1000 in prizes will be given away.

33 Race for Fame and Cash At Indianapolis Auto Speedway

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31—The world-famous 500-mile automobile race will be decided today for the 32nd time at the Indianapolis speedway, with 33 of the fastest racing cars ever built striving for victory.

The tiny, low-slung racers and the spirited dare devils driving them will be competing in this risky contest for prizes totalling more than $160,000, richest ever offered. The winner will receive $20,000 first prize, plus $100 for every lap in which he leads. The winner usually is out in front long enough to make his total earnings $30,000 to $60,000.

The starting field is the fastest in 500 mile race history. It is a blend of experienced veterans and freshmen, a combination of soloists and teams and a mixture of favorites and dark horses. It will be the first to include two 130-mile-an-hour qualifiers. It will have 20 money-winners from former speedway races and the one-two punch of last year's race —Mauri Rose, South Bend, Ind., the winner, and his teammate, Billy Holland, Reading, Pa. Holland finished second in one of the most sensational and most discussed finishes in the classic's history.

Attendance for the nation's biggest single day sports spectacle may reach a record 175,000. All 65,000 reserved seats, ranging in prices up to $15, have been sold. Speedway officials are prepared to handle an overflow crowd of tremendous proportions in the spacious infield of the 2½-mile track.

Only the weatherman's nod is needed to assure a dry, fast track, and perfect racing conditions. The forecasast was for slightly cloudy skies, with temperatures in the 80's, but no rain.

The race itself will start at 11 a. m. (Central Daylight time), when the pace setting car drops down on the apron at 95 miles an hour and starter Seth Klein waves the racers away on their hazardous 500-mile journey at terrifying speeds.

Race fans expect to see the late Floyd Roberts record winning speed of 117.2 miles an hour of 1938 smashed. For the first time they hope to see the leader averaging better than 120 miles an hour past the halfway mark.

Rose, the 1947 winner, driving the same Blue Crown Spark Plug Special which carried him to victory last year; Duke Nalon, Los Angeles; Rex Mays, Glendale, Calif.; Ted Horn, Paterson, N. J., and Holland all rated high tonight among the favorites.

STRANAHAN AIMS AT JONES' RECORD

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 31 — Frank Stranahan is aiming high. The millionaire's son from Toledo, O., tucked the British amateur golf championship trophy under his arm and set his sights on duplicating Bobby Jones' unprecedented "grand slam" of 1930.

"I want to win 'em all," the 25-year-old links ace said before leaving by air for home and a try for the second of the "grand slam" crowns that only Jones ever won in one year—the British and U. S. opens and amateur championships.

Stranahan machine-stroked his way to the first one yesterday through buckets of rain on Royal St. George's course, Sandwich, beating British Garage Mechanic Charlie Stowe, five and four, in the 36 hole final. The muscular Ohioan had failed twice before in this tourney.

Stranahan left this island to a gratifying, though somewhat grudging, chorus of praise from British links writers for what they called his "fair weather performance" in the finalist under worst possible golfing conditions.

Steady was the way Frank wore down the hard-driving, 39-year-old Stowe through a hard-fought morning round, broke him on the doglegged 23rd and finally won the title on the 32nd.

The weather was the worst for a final on the windswept course by the English channel since 1905, the Sunday Observer noted.

Ohio Track Coaches Pick All-Ohio Team

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., May 31—The Ohio Association of Track Coaches came up with its official All-Ohio high school team today and offered to pit its selections against any similar team from any other state.

The selections were spearheaded by Gene Cole of Lancaster, who set a national record of 48 seconds in the 440-yard dash and also won two other events at the state track meet in Columbus a week ago.

The honor list is based on recorded season-long times and distances rather than on state meet results alone.

Cole and Walter Klevay, ace Independence high school dashman, were named the outstanding individuals in Class A and Class B, respectively.

Among those selected were Gene Fleming of Caledonia, shot put in Class B, and Ronald Myers of Galion, on the Class A 880-yard relay team.

District American Legion Junior Baseball Finals To Be Played Here

Marion will be the scene of the American Legion Junior league baseball finals for sixth district teams July 15, W. E. Orcutt, manager of the local team and secretary of the league announced today. Tournament elimination games will be played at Newark July 16 and 17.

Play-off time for the tournament final here will be 6:30 p. m. at the Lincoln park field. Winner of the district finals will automatically be entered in the state tournament finals in Columbus August 6, 7, and 8.

The American Legion's District Six convention will be in Marion on the day of the finals and plans are being made for including the game as part of the festivities.

The local team will open its schedule June 6 at Mt. Gilead. Home opener is scheduled for June 19 at Lincoln park with Mansfield. Game time is 5 p. m.

At a meeting of the Sixth District Junior Baseball committee several days ago at Delaware, Russ Tharp was elected president of the league and W. E. Orcutt, secretary. It was decided that only one team from each county would be eligible to participate in the Legion tournament. In the counties, which include Marion, Delaware, Knox, Licking, Madison, Union and Morrow, where there is more than one team, only the better team will be allowed to play.

The Legion league is comprised of Delaware, Mt. Gilead, Mt. Vernon, London, Newark, Sunbury, Marion and Mt. Sterling. Marysville will not be in the league this year, being replaced by Mt. Sterling.

In case of rain the tournament game here July 18 will be postponed one week. Jewell Ralston and Craig Rogers, of the Junior Legion baseball committee, will have charge of financial arrangements here. County winners will meet in Delaware July 14 for tournament drawings.

New Outfielder Playing with Cubs

The Cubs acquired a new outfielder Sunday afternoon, sending pitcher Fred Wenzing to Janesville, Wis., to make room for him.

He is Pete Neukirch, of Chicago, Ill.

Pete came to Marion from Sioux Falls of the class C Northern league.

Last year he played on Zeke Bekeza's Elizabethton, Tenn., ball club, so is no stranger to the Marion Cub manager.

Neukirch is 19, stands five-nine and weighs 150. He bats and throws right and is reputed to be mighty fleet.

He played his first game for Marion Sunday afternoon.

ONCE WITH ZANESVILLE

Lima's first sacker, Chet Ashman, was until last Thursday a Zanesville outfielder, but was purchased from the Dodgers to strengthen the Terrier ball club.

Ashman hit .250 for the Dodgers in 20 games, but at time of his sale was leading the league in doubles—an even dozen.

Commuting Reinsman Hopes To Be First Amateur To Drive Hambletonian Winner

By The Associated Press

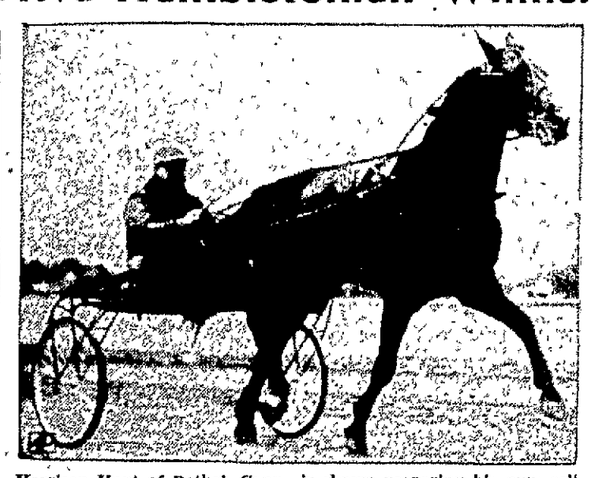
NEW YORK—Harrison Hoyt has thrown one of his many hats into the ring at Goshen, N. Y. He hopes to be the first amateur ever to win the Hambletonian.

The Bethel, Conn., hat manufacturer believes he has a good chance to capture the $60,000 stake on August 11 for he will be piloting his own colt, Demon Hanover.

From Bethel to Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island is about 75 miles. But Hoyt, the East's only commuting amateur, sulky pilot, thinks nothing of motoring from Connecticut to Westbury several times a week to train and drive Demon Hanover, currently the 3 to 1 Hambletonian favorite.

Hoyt became interested in trotters four years ago. In the fall of 1946 he bought Demon Hanover as a yearling. Last year as a 2-year-old the Dean Hanover colt lived up to his family background by winning 10 out of 12 starts with his owner doing the driving. Demon Hanover earned $3,810 or $1,200 more than his purchase price.

Undaunted by the fact that few owners have ever attempted to win the Hambletonian from veteran professionals, Hoyt is concentrating on trotting's big event of the year. This amateur rider will be up against such pros as Ben White and his son Gibson, Fred Egan, Tom Berry, Sep Palin and Henry Thomas.



Harrison Hoyt of Bethel, Conn., is shown preparing his own colt, Demon Hanover, for the $60,000 Hambletonian trotting classic to be held Aug. 11 at Goshen, N. Y. The Demon won 10 out of 12 starts last year and is the current 3 to 1 favorite for the race.

Dunbar Bostwick of Old Westbury, N. Y., and Aiken, S. C., has driven several times in the Hambletonian but the amateur sportsman never won it.

However, until last year when Hoot Mon won the blue ribbon event in 2:00, the fastest heat winner was Hollywood Dennis. This trotter was driven by his owner, the late John L. Dodge of Lexington, Ky., leading amateur of his day.

Dodge won a heat with Hollywood Dennis in 2:01¼ in 1932 for a record, but he failed to win either of the following heats.

Hoyt has entered Demon Hanover in stakes valued at more than $150,000 and the owner-driver expects to have his champion fill all engagements, which is a feat in itself. However, Hoyt's main goal is the Hambletonian.

TWICE RUNNER-UP

Though Charlie Keller of the New York Yankees, now making a game comeback with the world champions, never has won an American league homer title, he twice was runner-up for the honor. Charlie's 33 homers was four under Ted Williams in 1941 and in 1943 he was three behind Rudy York's top total of 34.

MUNDT BILL MAY BE LOST IN JAM

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 31 — The Mundt-Nixon bill to control Communists may be sidetracked in a session-end jam of senate lawmaking.

A Republican leader who favors enactment of legislation along the lines of the house-approved measure told a reporter that if congress quits June 19 there is little chance of final action on the bill.

If it is shelved now, sponsors will have to start all over again toward two-house approval in the new congress, unless a special session is held.

The judiciary committee resumes hearings on the measure today, with indications that when members get down to line-by-line work on the bill—possibly later in the week—they will propose extensive changes.

As it passed the house, the measure makes it illegal to try in any way to set up a foreign dictatorship in this country. It brands the Communist party as an organization under foreign control and requires it to register its membership every year with the attorney general.

The bill, or some of its features, already has been criticized by committee members Langer (R-ND), Cooper (R-Ky), McCarran (D-Nev), Kilgore (D-WVa), and Eastland (D-Miss).

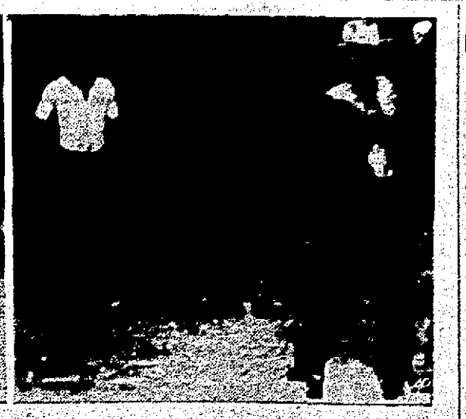
Senator Moore (R-Okla) told a reporter he doesn't see anything wrong with it. Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said he wants a bill of this type passed. Senator Revercomb (R-WVa) has indicated he favors it.

Five other committee members remain publicly uncommitted.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), who has criticized the form of the measure, has said that if the committee reports it out, the senate GOP policy committee, which he heads, will try to give it a place on the calendar.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) is reported to have told friends that while the bill may have loopholes in its present form, he would like to see the senate pass some law by which the government could regulate any foreign-controlled organization working to overthrow the United States government by force.

In observance of Memorial day, neither house will meet today. Beginning Tuesday, however, the pre-adjournment jam will be on.



THIS IS REEL REALISM. These two photos illustrate the passion for realism which has become one of the outstanding characteristics of modern movie-making. The photo at left is an actual news picture of A. B. Tolley, one of 12 convicts who broke from Colorado's state prison in December 1947, snarling defiance as he is searched by one officer and covered by another after having been pulled out of a snowbank near Canon City, Colo. When the producers of the movie "Canon City" got to this scene they followed it with painstaking exactness. The shot from the movie is shown at the right.

ROONEY HOME "LIKE HOTEL." Living in the home of film star Mickey Rooney was "as if we were living in a hotel somewhere," his wife, Betty Jane Rase, tells a Los Angeles judge, as she wins a divorce from the actor. The 21-year-old Alabama beauty won a $100,000 property settlement and $5,000 a year for their two children.

HOLDS GM PATTERN GIVES STEEL EXCUSE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 31—General Motors has provided the steel industry with an excuse to revise wages and prices by its recent pay raises, the magazine Steel said today.

But whether steel makers will do that remains unknown, it added.

"While steel producers are noncommittal on the GM move there is considerable doubt as to whether they can maintain industry's anti-inflation program — holding the line on wages and cutting prices," said Steel.

"However, the way is clear for the steel industry to make revisions in both wages and prices.

"At the time U. S. Steel made its anti-inflation announcement it emphasized the program was an experiment subject to any changes later seen necessary."

Certainly, the magazine said, the GM move will "tend to slow further steel price reductions."

ESTIMATE KENTON POPULATION 10,000

Special to The Star

KENTON, May 31—The city of Kenton has entered the "10,000 or more" population classification of American cities.

This conclusion is reached from facts, figures, and estimates of administrative officers, civic and industrial sources in a survey recently completed by The Kenton News.

The 1940 U. S. census showed the population of Kenton to be 7,493, and if a similar census were to be taken today the population would be "something over 10,000," the survey revealed.

The power company reveals that in May there are 2,581 electric meters in operation. There are 2,571 gas meters in service within the city corporate limits, according to Walter C. Gust, local manager of the gas company. "It is the acceptable procedure," said Mr. Gust, "to multiply the number of gas meters by four. This would give Kenton's population as 10,284."

Mr. Gust, who is president of the Kenton Chamber of Commerce, stated the chamber estimates the city's population at "over 10,000."

Postmaster Calvin S. Prater reports the number of delivery stops within the city limits to be 2,884. "By conservatively using the figure of 3.5 persons per family," Mr. Prater said, "this would give Kenton a population of 10,094." Mr. Prater's figures included only residential delivery stops, and do not include all places. "Judging from the increased volume of mail in the last three years," said Mr. Prater, "I think it would be conservative to say that the city's population is at least 10,000 at this time."

Most of the city's growth from the 7,493 population figure apparently has taken place within the last two years. A directory published in 1946 carried 8,513 names, indicating a growth of about 1,000 in a six-year period. Chamber of Commerce figures show that 80 new homes were built here in the last six months of 1947, some 40 more are now in process of construction, and that "at least 50 more are in the planning stage."

The growth of the city is primarily due to the influx of new industry to Kenton in the last three years, and the expansion in production facilities of the older industries.

The agate once was believed to be a good antidote for poisons merely if worn on the person.

In that bright eternal city,
Where no tears e'er dim the eye,
In the home of many mansions,
We will meet her bye and bye.
My lips cannot tell how I miss her,
My heart canont tell what to say,
God alone knows how I miss her,
In a home that is lonesome today.

ATTENTION PARENTS
Parents of 5th grade and older children.
The public schools offer music lessons to any child who has an instrument.
If your child has shown interest toward wanting to be a band member, you should investigate this wonderful opportunity. Hayden's Music Store is headquarters for school band instrument buyers for miles around. We have all kinds of instruments in stock to choose from. Actually over 335. We will be glad to show your child the different instruments, demonstrate them and help it decide.
If you are in doubt about your child's ability to learn a musical instrument, have no fear. Statistics prove well over 90% of all children who start in the school music bands continue. However for financial and other reasons we have a proven RENTAL plan to offer. WE WILL RENT ANY ONE OF OUR 335 INSTRUMENTS REGARDLESS OF PRICE. THE RENTAL COST IS 10% OF THE COST OF THE INSTRUMENT. EVERY CENT OF RENTAL YOU PAY IS APPLICABLE TO THE PURCHASE PRICE. What can you lose? Give your youngster a trial.
We also have dozens of used rebuilt instruments. NOTE: OUR USED INSTRUMENTS ARE RE-BUILT AND STERILIZED IN OUR OWN REPAIR SHOP. We do complete instrument repairing.
We are exclusive dealers for C. G. Conn, King, Holton, Buescher, Selmer, Olds, Frank Reynolds, Ludwig, Leedy, Slingerland, Deagan, etc.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

By AP Newsfeatures

FRED ALLEN, born May 31, 1894, is known for his radio comedy, but he got there by way of vaudeville, legitimate stage and screen. As a boy, he worked after school in a library. Later he had a factory job. He learned juggling and toured widely. His juggling act evolved into one that was mostly comedy monologue. Born John Florence Sullivan, he used many names on the stage until he fixed permanently on Fred Allen.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The television campaign for the presidential nomination has the candidates hunting up their baby-on-a-bearskin-rug pictures for life story background.

* * *

As the campaign warms up, news reels and cartoons will be added . . . I hear Disney had a feeler for "Dumbo".

* * *

But those baby pictures will cause some confusion in television homes . . . Someone is sure to say "That isn't Dewey . . . No mustache!"

* * *

And I don't know that baby pictures will help any candidate . . . It's hard to visualize a superman starting out in a yard of cloth and a safety pin.

* * *

But it will be interesting to hear the audience comments change, as the program moves along, from "He certainly was cute" to "He certainly thinks he's cute."

* * *

Still it adds something to the presidential campaign . . . Just the idea of a "still" picture of Henry Wallace is inviting.
